

“PUT OUT” for The Westwego School

Dear Family and Friends,

Spring baseball is about to begin and that means the start of my mitzvah project to raise money for the athletic department at The Westwego School in New Orleans. The Westwego School was destroyed during Hurricane Katrina in 2005. The school was rebuilt but in desperate need of money for the extras. It is a fact that kids need exercise to help stay healthy. Sports, not only gives them exercise, it also gives them a feeling of being part of something bigger and teaches teamwork.

To raise money I was hoping to be sponsored for every “put out” (defensive out) I make as a first baseman for the NJ Black Hawks this season. If sponsorship is too much to ask, maybe a donation could be made for this very worthy cause. The season runs thorough June and records will be kept. If you feel this is something you would like to contribute to, please drop me an email at randi1995@verizon.net and let me know what you have in mind.

I hope to raise as much money as possible; this is something I feel very strongly about. I hope this is my best season ever!

Thank you for your support, I really appreciate it.

Evan Dymond
